CUCAMONGA
. . . area news
By Cathy Putman

Two weeks ago THE NEWS published an article entitled "Thrift Shop Has Ancient Show Case." Being interested in old furniture I took a trip out to the Wig-Wag Thrift Shop. After examining the old show case I believe it is made of cherry wood and I found it would be especially good for people who collect and wish to display their collections without everyone handling them.

Naturally while there I browsed through their other antiques, finding an old chinese clever brought in from China, manufactured in the year 1888, tagged "Belonged to Old Sing Lee-Last of the Chinese in Etiwanda". Now that notation should be good enough to arouse the curiosity of anyone.

On inquiring of Mrs. W.C. Pearson, she told me the clever was donated to the Thirft Shop by Mr. Walter S. Price and that Mr. Price's father had owned the property that Sing Lee lived and died on.

So I give you the story of Sing Lee as told me by Mrs. Walter S. Price. At the turn of the century Chinese were brought into this country and lived in camps. Where they built their huts and built beds of sweat boxes, which were used to dry raisins.

Sing Lee was the last of the Chinese men who did the farm labor in the early days, cooking their rice over open fires. They traveled to and from the fields single file talking to each other in a sing song voice.

They went to work in many heavy coats peeling them off, one by one as the heat of the day progressed, hanging them on the grape vines as they worked - gathering them up in the evening as they returned home.

They shipped their rice in from China in matt sacks, using the empty sacks to cover the walls of their houses and the boards on their beds. Also their shoes were brought in from China and when the tops were too worn to use longer they used the leather soles for brake linings on the old fruit wagons. Hollow gourds were used for canteens.

The early China men prepared their own opium to smoke, cooking it in a tiny pot and stirring it with a hat pin.

Mrs. W.C. Pearson added to our notes that some of her family prize several brown earthenware jugs left by the Chinese and that not too long ago they plowed out some of the old blue bottles in which they kept their opium. Mrs. Pearson comes from the Johnson family who maintained two Chinese Camps.

Walter Price tells us that Sing Lee was one of the Old Chinamen issued a "Cho-Chee" a permanent passport. These were all issued prior to 1900.

Sing Lee passed away in 1937 - how old he was no one knew. He was buried in San Bernardino and all Price could find to mark the time of Sing Lee was the old clever, a few rice bowls, and some chop sticks - he felt that the use of the money obtained from the sale of these old articles would go to a worthy cause and serve as a salute to Old Sing Lee, the man from China, he knew so well as a boy. The last of the Chinese in Etiwanda.

hand, and other commercial subjects to Italians who know English and wish to qualify for positions where secretarial training in English is required.

The American Business School is the only school in Italy—and probably in all Europe—that offers this kind of training.

Mrs. Payne has taught at Chaffey College since receiving her M.A. from Stanford University in 1960. While at Chaffey she has been director of the secretarial work-study program, treasurer of the Chaffey College Teachers Association, and secretary of the Southern Section of the California Business Education Association.

Mrs. Payne is married to Clyde Ladell Payne, a member of the English faculty at Claremont Men's College. Mr. Payne has been granted a leave of absence for the next year and will accompany Mrs. Payne.

TOPPING a graduating class of 88 students at Central School, Cucamonga, these five will have special roles during the exercises at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 13.

By a strange coincidence, Mike Collins has a sister named Christen, and Christen Kowalski has a brother named Mike. Four years ago, Mike Kowalski received the same award and last year, Christen Collins was the recipient.

Artists Hold Demonstration And Exhibit

Adopting the name "The Village Artists," three art students - Mrs. J.B. Macfarlane, Mrs. Robert Thom and Mrs. Arthur Relph - conducted a demonstration and exhibit in the down town area of Alta Loma Thursday, June 7.

Painting at various times between 9 and 12 and again between 4 and 6 gave pleasure and interest to visitors and home town folk. Joining them in the afternoon was Kathryn Golden a 7th grader in Alta Loma, a potential artist, painting a bouquet of huge Amaryllis.

Mrs. Thelma Wait of Ontario demonstrated and added her finished pictures to the exhibit. Mrs. Emory Allen exhibited china painting and carved leather work. Many pictures of colorful landscapes, vases of flowers, and portraits were on display.

Attracting particular attention were two large paintings hung by Mrs. Andree Tolstoy (Mrs. Peter Tolstoy), a professional artist. One was of the Belcher barn, which has since been demolished to make way for the new high school.

The purpose of this demonstration was to suggest rewarding summer activities.

Lucky folk drawing prizes of merchant's donations late in the afternoon were: Anita Michael, Mrs. J.M. Reaves, Jesse Wyatt, Bobbie Gill, Robin Billings, Marcele Noel, Ruth Goslin.

Serving as models for the portrait work were little Miss Hyvernon, Mrs. Homer Goslin of Ontario and John Schmutz of Alta Loma.

To mark this as the first annual Alta Loma Art Festival a picture for circulation was given to the local library.

Etiwanda Winery Opens Taste Room

By Kathaleen Putman

On May 30 the tasting room was opened at the Regina Grape Products Company by John B. Ellena.

The first day open saw over 3,000 guests visit the winery to sample wine and go through the cellars where the wine is stored and processed. Since the opening a continual flow of three to four hundred people per day have visited the tasting room.

On entering the wine sampling room you are greeted by a very charming hostess Mrs. Amalia Testa. Amalia has been with Regina Vintner's for 22 years.

You are encouraged to start with the dry wines and finish with the sweet wines. The wine cellars are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week.

As a visitor you are permitted to tour the plant at your leisure. All through the plant you find the employees smiling and happy and willing to answer your questions.

Mr. S.R. Kemp, formerly of Upland, is supervisor of the warehouse. He is friendly and helpful, though busy he smilingly answers all your questions and gives directions on getting to the vinegar plant.

As you first enter the cellars, the large wooden kegs you see were brought to this country on ships, by Claudio Ellena at the turn of the century. Each barrel will hold about 2,000 gallons of wine. These were their first storage tanks.

John Ellena President and owner of the Regina Grape Products Company of Etiwanda resided on N. Euclid Ave. in Upland. Born in Italy he came to America with his father in the year 1906.

The Elder Mr. Ellena chose Etiwanda, California's sunny slopes, taking the foothills bordering the Sierra Madre Mountains, where he was sure wine grapes could be produced without irrigation and where the proper altitude and consistent climate could mature grapes with the proper sugar content, to equal if not surpass the grapes of Italy and France, where his family's former success as vintners had been well established. The family can boast of over 225 years of wine heritabe in Italy and America.

Many fine vintners recipes were brought to America by the Ellena family, from which some of the finest wines known to the wine industry today are made.

At one time the United States Department of Agriculture maintained a twenty acre grape experimental station in the Cucamonga Grape District, with about 450 different types of grapes from all over the world. These grapes were tested to select the best for ths area.

The grapes on the Ellena Ranch are mostly from cuttings obtained through the department of Agriculture from the grapes proven best for this climate.

Tip Browne, general manager of Regina Grape Products Company, living in this area since 1947, now resides in Cucamonga, tells us that the opening of the tasting room was not undertaken as a retail business, but was set up principally to educate the public on just what wine is, how it is made, and its proper use and to quote Tip: "If rightly used, there is a place in every American home, where wine will enrich their living".

Mr. Browne seemed very proud of the two champagnes produced by their company. The Regina Grape Products Company has won awards ranging from Gold Medals to Honorable mention at State Fairs at Sacramento and L.A. County Fairs. They are especially proud of the Gold Medals won on their Pink Champagne the last two years at Sacramento State Fair. They also took Gold Medals on their Red Chianti and Wine Vinegars.

Only wines which are grown and produced in the Cucamonga Wine District are allowed to be labled as Cucamonga Wines.

The Regina Grape Products Company is one of a number of wine producers who represent a large segment of Cucamonga's economy, and as such they invite the public to tour their plant and visit their tasting room.

Dedicated To Building A Bigger And Better Community In Which To Work, Live And Relax

AN EDITORIAL

A Few Bouquets To Throw...

In this spring season of blooming flowers (summer apparently hasn't arrived yet), there are a few bouquets to be tossed for jobs well done.

The Upland Lions Club is presently demonstrating its civic mindedness by constructing an addition to the Atwood Memorial kitchen in the Upland Memorial Park. The structure, originally built by the Lions, will be dedicated to the city for community use.

The Lions also are the sponsoring organization for the Sea Scout Ship Tigershark of Upland. These lads meet in Navy fashion, learn the ins and outs of seamanship and take various cruises for knowledge and recreation. They're headed by Skipper Wallace Randleman.

The Upland Lions are also engaged almost constantly in many activities for youth including an annual visitation to Ensenada where hundreds of unfortunate youngsters receive clothing, toys and food, compliments of the Lions.

The 82 men of the Upland Lions deserve a genuine pat on their respective backs for community jobs well done.

Another Upland service club which has been demonstrating its great interest in people and the community is the Kiwanis Club.

These men have recently completed an obstacle course at Circle B Boy Scout Ranch in the High Sierras to aid boys in their physical fitness program. Some 2500 boys use the facilities of the Old Baldy Council Camp. The same club last year built tent houses and cook tables at the camp.

Kiwanians also have recently sponsored two elementary school hobby show displays, aided by the local PTAs. The shows helped the youngsters to gain knowledge and interest in the many and varied fields of hobbies and crafts.

Another project upcoming by the Kiwanis Club is the fifth annual Community Swimming meet for youngsters of the Chaffey District . . . another aid in the worthwhile program of youth physical fitness.

Congratulations, Kiwanians, for your many efforts on behalf of youth of the community.

The Upland Rotary Club has also been active in assisting youth and education.

The club has established a Small Loan Fund for students of Chaffey and Upland Colleges to be used on a short term basis when immediate funds are required by a student.

Each year Rotarians present Student Achievement awards for outstanding Upland High and Upland Academy students - recognition greatly appreciated by students and school authorities.

The recently conducted "Students Run the City Day" is also under sponsorship of the Upland Rotary Club and serves as an educational feature for youth to learn functions of government.

Rotarians also sponsor a blood bank for persons in need and underwrite a Little League and Pony League baseball teams.

Hats off to Rotarians for their continuing interest in area educational programs.

Without mentioning the many, many persons involved by name, the sponsors, league officers, managers, coaches and the sundry jobs of the Little League, Pony and Colt Leagues, deserve much praise.

The youth baseball program of Upland has made tremendous strides in the past few years. Words certainly cannot express the appreciation that the boys must feel for these people who unselfishly devote many hours each week in this important recreation.

In the same vein, those who have given of their time to improve the Memorial Park baseball field, should receive more than just words of thanks.

The project, spearheaded by Max Hawkins and Bill Wolfe, included the installation of a mighty fine looking outfield fence, complete with signs resembling a big league park.

To the Class of 1962, Upland High School, goes our sincere desire for future success and happiness in the many endeavors that lie ahead.

You teenagers have just started on the long, and sometimes rocky, road to life. There have been many unforgetable experiences in your young life, but there are many, many more in your future. May you tackle all problems with determination and devote your lives to the advancement of yourselves - without selfishness - to your community, and to your country.

Congratulations, grads! With a thirst for knowledge, a desire to serve, sincerity of purpose, and a good sense of humor - just watch you go!

Attracting Business, Industry Becoming Highly Competitive

Attracting business and industry to Southern California cities and communities has become increasingly competitive in recent years, according to C.B. Miller, Division Manager for General Telephone Company.

"Ten and even five years ago California had almost only to sit and wait to welcome any number of industries to its plains and valleys," he said. "But in recent years other western states and communities have begun actively promoting their own regions as attractive sites for the establishment of manufacturing facilities and branch operations - Texas, Arizona, Seattle, Denver, to name a few."

What this means, he pointed out, is that the point is now being reached when Southern California communities must take more active participation in luring industry here.

He disclosed that the General Telephone Company's new president, R. Parker Sullivan, has said that although California's population is still on the rise and that there has been a gratifying increase in industrial development in recent months in the areas served by General, still continued efforts must be made to locate new plants and businesses in order to gainfully employ the thousands of new arrivals in the state each month.

What is to be gained by having new industries locate within a community's sphere of influence? Miller quoted Sullivan: "To remain a vigorous and stable community it is necessary to create and maintain a dynamic local economy. Otherwise, quickly or over a period of time, many of its inhabitants and commercial entities will inevitably be attracted to greener, more progressive centers."

He said that the General Telephone Company in coming to recognize this need to stimulate community growth a few years back, had in 1959 reorganized its administrative structure, and in the process formed a special industrial development department in its general offices in Santa Monica.

The purpose of this department, he continued, is to conduct studies into the assets and potentials of the more than 165 communities within its service areas, and to compile information and statistics for use by the communities in attracting commerce and industry to their environs. Last year the company was in contact with 91 industries regarding their plans for expansion, he added.

Miller said that Sullivan wished to urge all chambers of commerce, firms and civic groups to avail themselves of his company's desire to assist in promoting their community's interests.

Among the tangible resources available at General are a film produced by the company, entitled "Southern California Calling", which presents in brilliant color many of the attractive aspects of California living; statistics based upon studies into future growth of individual regions and communities; and safes representatives who are expert in planning individual communications requirements.

Explorers Visit Beach

Five members of Explorer Post 5, Upland, visited Ft. Mc Arthur, San Pedro, and stayed over night at the Cabrillo Beach Explorer Base on the weekend of May 19-20, according to Fred Dyer, Post President.

The Explorer Base afforded opportunities for swimming, boating, sailing, crab hunting and canoeing. The Post also visited the Marine Museum at Cabrillo Beach.

Participating were: Dyer, Dan Shotthefer, Kent Lindow, Neil Shankle and Gary Richardson. Post Advisor Cecil Richardson and Committee Chairman George Van Tugergen accompanied the group.

Exchange Student Talks To Zontas

Through the American Field Service, Mrs. Martha Kay, program chairman of Upland-Ontario Zonta Club, presented Miss Celia Raquel Pauli, Upland High School exchange student from Argentina at the regular May 28 program meeting held at the Sycamore Inn in Cucamonga.

Miss Pauli will graduate with Upland High seniors on June 14 and will then leave on bus tour of the United States with other exchange students in the area on June 19.

From Riverside, the busload of students will eventually reach New York City and Washington, D.C. On July 15, "Kelly", as Miss Pauli's friends call her, will fly out of Miami arriving at Buenos Aires where she will be met by her family on July 16.

She will arrive home in time for a winter vacation week with her parents, who are both pharmacists living in Tucuman, a city of 250,000, and with her younger brother and sister.

She will return to her own high school for four more months when she will graduate again, this time with a teaching certificate for elementary grades.

"Kelly" has enjoyed her friends in Upland and especially her American family, the Walton Wolfes of 1270 West 14th Street, where she has been youngest sister to Ida, freshman at Cal Poly; Evan, a sophomore at Chaffey College; and Roger, a University of California at Riverside graduate majoring in Chemistry.

Chemistry, Spanish, and Art have been common interests in this home.

"Kelly" was granted an Art scholarship at Scripps College by the Pomona Valley Art Association to be used while she was in Upland. Consequently, she is now interested in attending her home university in order to major in the humanities rather than in pharmacy as she and her family had formerly planned.

Miss Pauli made her farewell speech to the Upland High student body recently. When interviewed by Zonta members, Miss Pauli said, "I am sorry not to be in Upland for my sister Ida's wedding nor for Evan's wedding this summer. I am so sorry to leave my American friends. I have had a wonderful year in Upland."

Fifty three children displayed 56 exhibits in the second annual Hobby Show at the Upland Elementary School.

The event, held June 1, was co-sponsored by the PTA and the Upland Kiwanis Club. Members of the Kiwanis Club judged the entries on the basis of effort, originality, neatness and skill.

Blue ribbon awards were given to Mickie Easterling, rock collection; Sally Harman, Indian craft; Jan Harman, dolls; Erica Yardell, buttons; Diane Benninghoff, plastic jewelry; Larry Meintz, airplane models; Jeffrey Boyer, handicraft; and Karla Kellett, cake. Other entrants were awarded red and white ribbons.

Quality of the exhibits were much improved over the previous year and most of them represented a considerable number of hours plus originality and skill by the children, according to the judges.

Mrs. Betty Hayden of the PTA and Mr. Allen Palmer of the Upland Kiwanis Club were co-chairmen for this event.

Edison Offers Free Planning Assistance

Expert assistance in planning the electrical system of any home — whether it's a new residence or one being remodeled — is available free of charge to customers of Southern California Edison Company, the utility announced this week.

"We are anxious to have all residents of Edison service territory informed of the services provided by our consultants, and to take full advantage of them whenever they can be useful," declared Edison Local Manager C. G. Shores.

Home-owners wishing assistance are instructed to telephone their local Edison district offices, Shores explained. Experienced residential consultants are available at each office, he said, to go over house plans to make sure there are enough electrical circuits of proper size wires, an adequate number of correctly placed convenience outlets and switches, and to offer advice on all other facets of the home electrical system.

In addition, Shores pointed out, Edison home economists can give sound advice on the placement of new kitchen appliances for maximum efficiency, as well as instruction on their care and use.

Electric range and electric water heater servicing is available without charge, also, the Edison official said. Should they require repair or adjustment after their manufacturer's warranty has expired, an expert service man is available simply by calling the local Edison office. The only charge for range and water heater service is the cost of any parts which might need replacing.

Chaffey College Professor Dr. Edwin Klotz will address the Cup and Candle Club of Kaiser Steel Corporation on Monday, June 18, at 7 p.m. at the Stuft Shirt Restaurant in Upland. The title of Klotz's lecture will be "Spain, Communism and United States Policy."

He studied at the University of Madrid and University of Barcelona in Spain. His Doctoral Thesis was "American Corsairs and Spain (1776-1786)."

Dr. Pearl Clark

Her devotion to the teaching profession has won her national recognition with awards from the American Scholars, the American Men of Science, and she has been listed in Who's Who.

Dr. Clark took her Master's degree at the University of Montana and her Doctorate at the University of Southern California. She joined Chaffey College as a philosophy teacher and dean of women. During her long career she has counseled over 5,000 students, many of whom attended the function on Saturday night.

In addition to her many duties at Chaffey College, Dr. Clark has been active in the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Club, the Dean's Association and the American Association of University Women. She has contributed a great amount of time to civic and social activities in the Chaffey District.

Dr. Clark's hobbies have been photography and traveling, and upon her retiring, she plans a trip to Australia to visit members of the George Chaffey family, who founded the College in 1883.

To make her trip more pleasant, Dr. Clark was presented with a complete set of luggage, a gold wrist watch, several rolls of 35 mm film and a quart jar full of quarters for "tips."

This year, the student body at Chaffey College dedicated the 1962 yearbook, the Argus, to Dr. Clark. Appropriately, the inscription reads in part, "she has endeared herself to succeeding generations of students to such a degree, that it is practically impossible for us to separate our memories of Chaffey from those of Dr. Clark."

Programming counseling and registration of new day-time students at Chaffey College will continue through Friday, June 29, it was announced by the registrar's office. Programming and registration will not be held during the month of July until the 30th when it will resume again.

Students who will not be able to register in August should make arrangements to program and register before June 29.

All regular students are required to take placement tests, and these should be taken on one of the two remaining dates, which are, Friday, June 15 and Saturday, June 23.

The tests will be given in the Chaffey College Library promptly at 8:30 a.m.

MYSTERIES OF A DAMAGED TELEPHONE CABLE are explained to Maman Sudarman Judosubrotto, an exchange student from Indonesia who is attending Chino High School, by Bob McLeod, facilities manager for General Telephone Company's local division. The cable was damaged by contact with high voltage wires.

Phone Company Completing Program To Cut Troubles

Early in 1961, General Telephone Company of California took the first step in a massive plan to reduce "Out-of-Service" conditions during wet weather, according to R. A. Tiarks — Local Division Manager.

He also stated that the program, called Cable Pressurization, is progressing very well and is expected to be completed by the end of 1963.

Tiarks gave the following explanation for the necessity of such a program. "During dry months of the year a surprising number of holes are made in led cables which carry thousands of wires for telephone customers," he continued.

"There are many causes, including wind, bullets, boring beetles and rodents. The holes normally are not detected because of negligible telephone failure, but with the seasons first rain or heavy fog, moisture enters the holes and moderate to major "Out-of-Service" conditions develop," Tiarks said.

"Little can be done to eliminate the hole causing elements, but a great deal can be done to reduce the resulting trouble," Tiarks stated. "This is accomplished with an air dryer unit which is established in each central office.

"Dry air is pumped from this mechanism into all major size cables and held under constant pressure. If a cable is punctured, the force of outflowing air will not permit moisture to enter."

When the discharge of escaping air is registered on meters in the central office, the proper cable and location of damage is identified. Repairs are then made with a minimum of effect upon telephone service.

Tiarks stated in conclusion that when the project is completed customers will experience considerably fewer occasions of telephone trouble during the wet weather season.

Scout Ranch Is Prepared

The Circle B Scout Ranch was the scene of feverish activity over the June 2-3 weekend as 19 Old Baldy Council Scouters worked to ready camp for an expected influx of over 650 Scout campers beginning June 16.

Major projects under construction are 3 new toilets and wash stands in the troop areas and a unit leaders' program lodge. Ray Brady, Pomona, is work party foreman of the lodge. 27 cubic yards of concrete were poured and finished.

On the previous weekend 58 Council Scouters, Order of the Arrow members, and Upland Kiwanians built the lodge foundations, installed all the basic plumbing, and erected an obstacle course.

Included in the June 2-3 work party from Upland were: Chuck Lewis, Gordon Groshong, Warren Riner, George Van Tubergen and Dick Welch.

Volunteer carpenters or Scouters handy with a hammer are urgently needed for the June 9-10 weekend when the pre-cut lodge and toilets will be erected. Meals and lodging for the weekend are furnished by the Council but transportation must be arranged for by individuals attending.

The Scout Ranch is located in the Sierras approximately 40 miles northwest of Invokern and 180 miles from the Pomona Valley.

Interested parties should contact the Council Office immediately at Na. 6-3552

CHP, Coroners Probe Fatal Crash Causes

The role of carbon monoxide, alcohol and drugs as causative factors in single-vehicle fatal accidents will be probed in a research program undertaken jointly by the California Highway Patrol and the California State Coroners Association.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said that initially the study will be conducted in 2 counties, including San Bernardino County.

The Patrol will gather and analyze data on the accidents themselves, including special information relating to the possible presence of carbon monoxide in the vehicles involved.

Cooperating coroners will conduct post-mortem examinations on fatal victims from the same accidents to determine the presence of carbon monoxide, alcohol or drugs.

"Single vehicle accidents were chosen for the study because this type crash has increased sharply in recent years. In addition, it is relatively simpler to isolate relevant facts when only one car is involved," the commissioner said.

"Carbon monoxide has long been suspect in those accidents in which the driver apparently went to sleep. With the coroners' assistance in this study, we should be able to discover much in this area.

"We also will have the opportunity to more accurately pinpoint the presence of alcohol and drugs and their contribution to the traffic accident toll."

The commissioner said that a number of cities within the 20 participating counties also have agreed to take part

MWD To Start Water Study

Robert A. Skinner, General Manager and Chief Engineer of The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, has been authorized by the District Board of Directors to proceed with preliminary studies of the location and design of distribution facilities for the delivery of State Project (Feather River) water within the District's six-county service area.

These facilities will pick up the State Project water at the points where it will be delivered to the District by the California Aqueduct.

Skinner stated that the ultimate cost of these facilities is estimated to be about $500 million but that these expenditures will extend over a thirty-year period.

The Board action marks the first step toward the location and design of the complex works that will eventually bring Northern California water into the homes and industries on the coastal plain of Southern California.

Skinner estimated that the studies authorized by the District Board will take about three years to complete, with actual construction work possibly getting under way in 1965.

He pointed out that the District has a contract with the State for the ultimate delivery of 1,500,000 acre-feet of Project water annually but that initial deliveries in the early 1970's will be much less than the ultimate amount.

The State Water Development Project contemplates State construction of the California Aqueduct and the two branch aqueducts into Southern California, terminating at Castaic Reservoir in Los Angeles County and Perris Reservoir in Riverside County.

From these two and other connecting points the Metropolitan Water District will construct the facilities to deliver the water to its constituent municipalities and agencies.

Skinner said the studies will also include the location and design of facilities to distribute northern water from the Perris Reservoir to the District's eastern and southern member cities and agencies.

He pointed out that the Metropolitan Water District now extends into the six counties of os Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Ventura. It includes a population and an assessed valuation of approximately half of the State.

"Several years ago the District Board adopted a policy statement which said that 'when and as additional water supplies are needed within the Metropolitan Water District, the District will be prepared to deliver these supplies,'" Skinner declared.

Obstacle Course Built By Kiwanis

Circle B Boy Scout Ranch, located in the Old Baldy Council High Sierra area, may now boast of a complete obstacle course, assembled and installed by the Upland Kiwanis Club.

Fourteen Kiwanians, headed by Dale Genung, recently journeyed to the camp site and amidst wind, rain and snow completed not only the regulation obstacle course, but four double chinning bars at selected camp sites.

This venture completed a program started last year by the Upland Kiwanis Club in an effort to provide complete facilities for about 2500 boys of the Old Baldy Council.

Last year's efforts saw the Kiwanians build and install 16 tent houses, four cook tables and four picnic tables.

The obstacle course consists of the following six units: vaulting rail, rope climb, scaling rail, scaling wall, overhead monkey-bars and balance rail and covers approximately 100 yards. Materials for these obstacles were largely donated by local vendors. Members of the Upland Kiwanis Club donated approximately 300 man hours to assemble and install this equipment.
